Cantata Technology, an independent provider of enabling communications technology, announced that Waveleap Communications, a provider of wholesale IP-based call termination and conversion services, has deployed the IMG 1010 Integrated Media and Signaling VoIP Gateway in its global network. Waveleap selected Cantata's IMG 1010 as a component of its new Xvon.net service, which provides realtime, outsourced conversion services (transcoding) among the popular voice compression protocols (G.711, G.723 and G.729). Xvon.net provides this service to carriers, aggregators, calling card companies and the enterprise.

In other news, Cantata Technology and Voiceway, a value added distributor and telecom company, have announced that Voiceway will be providing localized sales support and service in Europe for Cantata's Brooktrout intelligent fax platforms. Cantata offers a wide range of fax platform products.

Amp'd Mobile, a provider of integrated mobile entertainment, has made development deals with Hollywood entertainers, including Jack Black, Dan Harmon, Rob Schrab, and ICEBOX, co-founded by Howard Gordon, the executive producer of "24" and "The X-Files." Amp'd also announced an extended deal with Donick Cary, co-creator of Comedy Central's "Lil Bush: Resident of the United States," a made-for-mobile program originally developed by Amp'd Mobile that crossed over to linear television.

dotMobi, an internet address designed specifically for mobile phones, has announced its "Go Mobile!" initiative, a program for dotMobi's network of global registrars and resellers to help businesses accelerate their move to the mobile internet. Go Mobile! is exclusively available to dotMobi's registrars and resellers, and includes a range of tools for developing mobile content, as well as targeted marketing guides to improve companies' mobile capabilities and business volumes.

bcgi, a provider of solutions to mobile operators and MVNOs worldwide, has announced new capabilities within its Payment Manager application that enable operators and MVNOs to extend their top-up footprints across international borders and across mobile operators. Cross-border, cross-carrier recharge lets mobile subscribers recharge their own phones, as well as those of family and friends, no matter their location. This new capability will allow international roamers to maintain their account balances, improving the roamer's customer experience and helping increase international roaming revenues for operators.

Available exclusively at participating 7-Eleven stores, the new ReVoS PrepaidMobile calling service is now available and provides unlimited calls to 42 countries including destinations in Canada, Mexico, Europe and China for less than $20 per month. ReVoS is short for "Revolutionary Voice Service" and is a product of RNK Communications. ■
